Throughout her career, Stephanie has developed a practice focused on advising closely held businesses on the full range of issues faced in today's legal landscape. Helping business owners achieve their goals, grapple with operational and market challenges and navigate to success is what Stephanie loves about her profession.

Stephanie advises businesses and individuals through real estate sales, purchases and leases. She is an advocate for her clients through both residential and commercial real estate transactions.

For her individual and family clients, Stephanie is a valuable partner helping to develop estate plans that reflect their hopes, values, and legacy. She is experienced in estate administration matters for estates of varying sizes and complexity. Strategic, practical and responsive legal service is central to Stephanie's approach to her clients and practice.

Community involvement is another priority for Stephanie, who serves on the New Britain Township Planning Commission, the New Britain Township Republican Club, the Bucks County Republican Committee, Soroptimist International of the Doylestown Area the Villa Joseph Marie High School Alumnae Association, as well as other local networking and youth related organizations. Stephanie participates in many local youth community and school activities with her two young sons and is a life-long Philadelphia Flyers fan.
