Biography

As an estate planning attorney, Tracey Connor is committed to helping individuals and families plan thoughtfully for their future and protect what matters most to them. She takes a personalized approach to estate planning, working closely with each client to understand their goals, priorities, and family circumstances. Tracey focuses on identifying the key issues that should be addressed in an estate plan while making complex wealth transfer and tax planning concepts accessible and understandable.

Tracey practices in the firm's Wealth Transfer Planning and Estates and Trusts Department. Her practice focuses on estate planning, estate and gift tax, estate administration, and probate. She counsels clients on sophisticated estate planning and gifting strategies, tax reduction techniques, asset protection planning, and the administration of estates.

Whether helping clients establish or update an estate plan, develop strategies for transferring wealth, or navigate the administration of an estate, Tracey strives to provide practical, thoughtful guidance tailored to each client's individual needs. Her goal is to help clients develop plans that reflect their wishes and provide greater clarity and confidence for themselves and their families.

Tracey earned her J.D. from Temple University James E. Beasley School of Law. She received her Bachelor of Science in Philosophy from The University of Tampa in 2016.

In her free time, Tracey enjoys hiking and outdoor activities. Her perfect day is one spent exploring the Wissahickon trails with her family, followed by a good cheeseburger and a well-earned craft beer.
